THE BEST, AND CHEAPEST. IN MOST UNIFORM SERIES OF STANDARD SCHOOL BOOKS

TO these engaged in the inaportant, but ardnous task of instructing youth, McGFFFEV'S ECLECTIC KEADERS, Nos. ONE, Two, Three AND FORE, are now presented, theroughly revised, and greatly enlarged, with many important improvements. They are now in a permanent stereotype form, NO FURTHER ALTERATIONS being intended.

Prof. McGuffey's enthusiastic devotion to the cause of Education his fine taste and discriminating mind, and his practical experience as an instructer, rewler him peculiarly fitted for the department of enthorship, to which he bas given his attention. The suggestions of intelligent teachers who had used the former editions of the series, and the valuable sid afforded him in the revision by an experienced educator, have also furnished him with unusual facilities for advantageously revising and enlarging these works.

unusual facilities for advantageously revising and entarging these works. In this series, comprising as it does, a careful selection of instructive, entertaining and moral matter, progressively arranged, and graduated with reference to the capacity of the pupil, Prof. McGuffey has afforded to parents and teachers, a most thorough, complete, and efficient anxiliary in the education of youth. Its extensive use loss been sufficient for the development and just appreciation of its many excellencies. The result is, that intelligent teachers pronounce it the most complete series now before the public.

preciation of its many excellencies. The result is, that intelligent teachers pronounce it the most complete series now before the public.

The intrusic merit of Prof. McGuffey's Eclectic Readers, having gained for them an unparalleled and rapidly increasing circulation, the publisher is enabled, notwithstanding the heavy expenditme in their revision and endargement, to manufacture them in the neatest and most durable manner, while they are now furnished at such low prices, that they are the CHEAPEST, as well as the best school reading books extant.

MR. HUNTON'S RESOLUTIONS-In Continuation. Mr. J. SPEED SMITH apprehended that the proposition would become too heavily laden with quendments, and hoped that its friends would vote them all down promptly. They were only intended to burden the animal. [A laugh.]

Mr. ROOT. It seemed to him that the amendnent ought to be voted down. Such offices as were not in the power of the people-offices in which individuals could hold a sort of life estate, as he thought, ought to be inquired into by the Legisla-As for the Governor and members of the Legislature, they returned frequently to the people, and needed not so much the watch-care of gentlemen. Should it go out to the world, that the Legislature of Kentucky was afraid to inquire into the character and conduct of these officials, thus placed over our heads for life? He would go for the proposition, because it might lead to the demolition of concerning the Banks of Kentucky; which was read, this ancient aristocracy of office; and because it was, to his mind, an indication that the time was at By Mr. HOWELL, a bill to amend the law hand, when these old dynasties would be quietly torn away; and when political power, and all that appertains to it, would be restored to the hands of By same, a bill for the benefit of the heirs of Ezra the people. Mr. H. said he had but little experience in legis lation; but he knew enough to satisfy his mind of this, that, in many cases, where a member of the Legislature wishes to look into the conduct of some come out frankly with his charge he commonly cayers up his purpose under a general resolution, creating a committee to inquire into the combiet of all that class of offices to which he belongs, with power to send for persons and papers. And such proposi-tions were readdy passed. For one gentleman rises a series of resolutions in relation to Oregon, deup and says, there is no wrong in my district-they claring that the rejection by Great Britain of the are all pure there. And so all over the House, increasing existing suspicions, and with them the necessity for investigation-and all because some one or two Judges, it may be, are either sailly corrupt that the country of Oregon is rightly ours-that or supposed to be corrupt. But why not come out Great Britian's claim is outrageous-and that Conboldly and honestly with names and specifications ? It was perhaps due to the Commonwealth that some investigations be had; but let them come up in some tangible shape.

The gentleman from Campbell, [Mr. Root.] was mistaken in his idea that no Magistrate could be re- and the yeas and mays called -lost; yeas 73, mays 89. moved. We frequently eatch them up here and take away timer commissions. He mentioned the case of such a removal some years ago, in which one of the charges against him was playing cards in a barn, or rather he only sat by and looked on while his partner played; and as the player won, the Magistrate would enter up his judgment and cause the losing party to be sued, &c. It was also within the knowledge of Mr. H., that a clerk was removed from office by the Court below stairs, only a few weeks ago.

The gentleman from Madison [Mr. J. S. Smith.] says it would not do to pass by investigation; it was tions of conduct, from the highest to the lowest: but he was really anwilling to go into the matter by way of making it a general serre warrin; busi-But let gendemen specify their cases of sus-Sheriff, the Magistrate - and he could not see why we should not include the Constable; for he verily thought of all orders of men, take them as a whole, the Constables were the greatest curse to the Commonwealth. If we would go in search of the muddy waters, when we shall have hunted them out, the foolest and most offenpensive: as, for example, when the committee shall sit, and gentlemen should suspect anything wrong about the elections in Campbell, the representative from that county would be at hand, a good and ingood people of this good old Commonwealth know if he had not relatives, in nearly all the offices pro- one in standing up for his country. invited investigation. He only desired some tangible, practical basis on which the committee might act intelligently.

Mr. WALLER said that he was in earnest in supporting the original resolutions of inquiry, and was for giving instant notice to Great Britain to for that reason should oppose the amendment. The original resolutions were objected to by the gentlemen now advocating the amendment, on the ground that the inquiry proposed was too broad, and would require too much time. Now they urge that it is too occupation, no protection to settlers, no forts, stocknarrow, and propose to extend the inquiry so as to embrace the executive offices and the members of this House. He could not believe the gentlemen sincere; their object must be to defeat the resolution and stifle investigation. If they were sincere, he was ready to aid them in their efforts. Let the resolutions pass as they are, and the committee will not be overburdened. The gentlemen can bring forward their proposition in a separate form, and have it referred to a separate committee. Both investigations could then progress at the same time. Do this, and he said he stoud prepared to go as far as any member on this floor, in aiding them to accamplish their object. Sir, this is no party move-ment, nor should it be made so. It is an inquiry into the conduct of officers of the government, upon the suggestion that corrupt practices exist. The country demands the investigation. Is either party prepared to take the responsibility of opposing it? Sir, saidhe, I regret the remarks of my friend from Franklin, (Mr. HARLAN;) they were, in his opinion, ill timed and out of place. No doubt corrupt practices at elections obtain occasionally in both parties, and in all counties. Let us be candid, and take an unprejudiced view of things as they are. It is useless to exaggerate or cast reflections upon particular counties. If the gentleman really wishes to purify the hallot-box, let him take a separate action at the proper time, and he pledged him his sup-

Mr. ROOT said he did not intend to say anything further as to the merits of the bill. His only object was to reply to the gentleman from Franklin. He was not aware of any importation of German votes -had never heard of the landing of steamboats in Campbell laden with German voters. The statement was unjust, and the gentleman from Franklin had not even the anthority of the vilest and most polluted partizan sheet in this Commonwealth for his authority; he was, therefore, amazed that a gentlemen of so high and dignified standing should see truth absolutely, without an if. fit to make such a charge upon this floor. He was sure that it emanated from the overflowings of an inventive imagination. The eagle eyes of the Whig wine from his cellar, finding that an aperture had Judges would certainly have detected the fraud, if it been made in the wall sufficiently large to admit had ever existed. This charge was for the first an armand hand, placed a rat trap close to the hole, time made by the honorable gentleman himself, and and next morning he found some human skin and a it will greatly enlighten the most sagacious of his portion of the nail of a finger. > Mr. Garrett Davis, of Ky., moved that the committee of the Whole be discharged from the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Douglass, of Ill., in relation to Oregon, and which had been referred to said committee, and made the order of the day for Tuesday next; and that said resolution of Mr. Donglass be referred to sundry standing committees. The question was taken on Mr. Davis' motion and lost. Mr. Douglass' resolutions were set for consideration on the 13th. A they suspect improper conduct in the Judge, the very interesting and exciting debate arose, in which Messrs. Haralson, Houston, Holmes of S. C., Douglass and J. Q. Adams took part. Mr. Douglass gave certain peculiar friends of Texas some severe hits for their lukewarmness on the Oregon quesed to the amendment because it proposed to inquire tion. Every thing was made to jump on the Texas question, but now every thing was thrown in the way of securing Oregon. He poured some shots into the committee on Foreign Relations for their here: for if common fame be true, many of our elec- tardiness, and he made some stinging allusions to the deliberation now manifested by some in this case, who saw England as the foe; but who had been extremely rampant for Texas, when Mexico sive dregs will be found in the political tub at last. only opposed. We have not room for his remarks at length, but condense his principal points. He terminate the joint occupancy-he would do it that very day if he could-every thing depended on this -he would vote for nathing relative to Oregon, no ndes, block-houses, regiments of riflemen, miners, sappers, pontoniers-nothing of the sort-till we had first given the notice. Then we could do all with clear consciences. He was for sacredly adhering to treaties while in force, but f r the instant termination of the Oregon joint occupancy. He believed there would be no war. Even occupation, ufter notice, would not lead necessarily to war. They could take possession and then negotiate. That, at least, was in accordance with military usage. He had heard the rumor that the committee on Foreign Relations hesitated about giving notice. He deeply regretted to hear this, and hoped they would report in favor of it. After giving the notice, however unwilling he ever had been to increasing our military force, he thought he could get over his objections, and especially if Great Britain manifested any offence on receiving the notice. If war should come, which, however, he did not apprehend, the whole country would unanimously stand by the claims of the United States to the whole of Oregon.

> The Louisville Democrat has a long, abusive article about the Commonwealth and the public printing, and a number of short ones. The substance of the whole is concentrated in the following:

> "The editor of the Commonwealth landed the Whig party that gave Gales & Seaton $40,000 to make up for their losses on the public printing .-The editor of the same paper now says that the Congressional printer gets too much."

Good Breeding .- The following hints offered by a critic, who has been a close observer of men and manners. He thinks it an important subject, and asks the attention of all the carcless to this list of transgressions:

"Loud and harsh speaking, making noises in eat- at ing or drinking, leaving arkwardly while sitting, ratiling knives and forks when at table, starting up suddenly and rushing unceremoniously out of a room, tossing any thing away with indifference or contempt, receiving anything without thanking the giver, standing in the way of any one when there is little room to pass, (a grievon's practice in a city) stepping before one who is looking at any object, particularly, pushing or jostling any one without apologising, taking possession of a seat that belongs to another, intruding opinions when they are not sought or where they give offence, leaving acquaiatances in the street or in a private circle without bidding them good bye or courteously saluting PLUMBE NATIONAL DAGUERREAN GALthem, slapping any one familiarly on the shoulder, interrupting a person who is in conversation, telling long, tedious, or humdrum stories, whispering in company, making remarks on the dress of those you, or upon things in the room where you are, flatly contradicting a person, using slang phrases, (a very common habit,) interlarding our speech with foregoing phrases, (well hit off in the new comedy of Fashion.) repeating the words, says he and says she, you know, and you understand, helping yourself first at the table, using a fork as a toothpick, patting the fingers in the ears, cleaning or paring the nails before company, mentioning the price of anything when it is offered to a guest, asking questions which give pain, and neglecting to answer letters.

THE OREGON QUESTION .- The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Patriot writes under date of the 25td ult:

A distinguished Senator had a free and open conversation with Mr. Pakenham last Thursday evening, on which occasion the British minister very decidedly and candidly expressed his belief that there was no probability of a war on the Oregon question. War was only a remote possibility, taking into view his own country's resolute dispusition to so settle the question as to give mulnal satisfaction and avoid a conflict.
